

Changes to the FE department classrooms.

Hello FE Students! I thought I'd take the opportunity to fill you in on some changes that have been taking place in our department. There is building work going on and the rooms will look quite different by the time school is back to normal again. The builders have blocked up some of our windows in preparation for the much bigger building works taking place next year we think. There will be extra classrooms being added onto our side of the building, which is why the windows are going. FE1 will have another window put in where our screen is currently. Charlie and Nigel have kindly taken these pictures to show you, and I will post pictures of the finished rooms when they are done so you can get used to the changes before seeing them for the first time. Stay well, we will get through this and come out the other side,

I personally can't wait!

Here are the windows for FE1 and the middle room being blocked up. I hope the builders are planning to get a better finish than that!

Getting there now in FE1. Can you see where our window and screen used to be?

FE2 has also changed. There was a window there before. Now it looks an ideal spot for an electronic screen which FE2 have never been able to have because of a lack of wall space.

The middle room has lost its door, so we'll have to use the other one in the corridor to get out to the playground. On the plus side this could become a better learning space without people coming in and out all the time.

See you soon, and in the meantime I'll keep you updated on the building works.
